EDMONTON BULLETIN, NOV. 17TH, 1898.

THE GRAIN QUESTION.

THE Morden Chronicle again raises the question of the right to ship grain from flat warehouses. It says that the district in which Morden is situated is the best wheat growing district in Manitoba, and yet that the price paid at a number of points mentioned in this district was only 51c against 54 and 59 cents at other points in the province. There are plenty of elevators in that district, but the Chronicle infers the existence of a combine, the only way to break which is to allow freely the building of flat warehouses.

J. M. Douglas, M. P. for East Assiniboia, will it is said re-introduce his bill to require railways to accept grain from either flat warehouses or farmers' wagons as well as from elevators.

A FRIEND (?) OF CANADA.

The Montreal Star is busily engaged in writing down the Edmonton routes to the Yukon. W. L. Mitchell, customs broker, of Montreal, has returned home. Mr. Mitchell gave up the attempt to go up Rat River from Fort Macpherson on account of his ankles having become swollen from exposure while portaging. Mr. Mitchell has not given such a tale of woe as Capt. Cadell, but the fact that he gave up the attempt is sufficient excuse for the Star to condemn the practicability of the Makenzie route. The fact that a man accustomed to city life as a customs broker found the work of portaging hard is nothing wonderful. It would be wonderful if he did not. But that does not necessarily prove anything against the practicability or suitability of the route for those who are suited for it. Supposing Mr. Mitchell had gone to Dawson City by balloon, if he intended to follow the avocation of a prospector and miner, he would have to face just such hardships as he had to at the Rat river portage. If he could not face them at Rat River he could not have faced them at Dawson. Thousands of others who supposed that their difficulties were over when they reached Dawson, and found that they were only beginning, have either sat down and done nothing or gone out of the country and home by the easiest route. What is the matter with the Star giving a few of the experiences of these men, dozens of which must in the nature of things have come under its notice. The effort of the Star to prevent people taking either Edmonton route is an effort to prevent the prospecting and development of the interior of Canada; a development which would be entirely Canadian, and for Canadian benefit only. But the Star is nothing if not treacherous.

Incidentally, no doubt unthinkingly, the interview with Mr. Mitchell contains information that is of great importance in that it confirms the fact that interior Canada has a practicable ocean port. When Mr. Mitchell turned back from the attempt to ascend Rat River he went down the Mackenzie with Rev. J. O. Stringer to Herschel Island, in the Arctic ocean. There he took passage on the United States whaling vessel, Wanderer, 300 tons burden, and left Herschel Island for Behring straits on August 25th. The fleet of the Pacific Steam Whaling Company, whose station is at Herschell Island, and which had a very successful season in the Arctic at the mouth of the Mackenzie, went out at the same time. One of these vessels, the Grampus, had taken 36 whales. The Wanderer had taken 7. The point of interest in this information is that there is unbroken steamboat navigation from Great Slave lake to a port on the Arctic ocean, on Herschel Island. A number of ocean vessels sail between San Francisco and this port every season in the ordinary way of business. This being the case there is a possibility of cheap transport for the products of the galena deposits now known to exist on Great Slave lake in immense quantities. These deposits are not valueless by reason of being far removed from cheap transportation. On the contrary they have water transportation to all parts of the world, and therefore have a value that they would not otherwise possess.

If the Star and some of the other eastern papers would spend as much time and space in writing up Canada and its resources as it does in writing them down Canada would not have to lament a million Canadians in the States, as at present, and Canada would be a much better country to live in.

ACROSS THE MOUNTAINS.

Revelstoke is on the east bank of the Columbia at its second crossing by the C. P. R., and is an important mining and distributing centre. It is also a C. P. R. divisional point and junction. It has all the marks of a live and progressive place—plenty of new stylish looking buildings, and lots of bustle on the streets. The population is said to have doubled within the past year. The evidence of being in a mining region was brought forcibly to the notice of the railway passengers. Just as the train pulled in to the station several sharp reports were heard from the brow of the hill overlooking the town. The sound was from the setting off of several blasts in the work of developing a mining property. Whether it was a real piece of development work or only an advertising device, or whether the information given as to the purpose of the work was incorrect, it was a most effective way of attracting favorable attention. There are mining properties east and west of Revelstoke accessible by rail—eastward up the Illecillewaet and westward in the Eagle pass—and also north and south, accessible by the Columbia river. The Big Bend district is about 100 miles to the north and seems to be a region of excellent prospects; but the most substantial footing of Revelstoke as a mining centre is in the Lardeau and Trout lake district, about fifty miles to the southeast. But there will have to be some railway construction from the head of an arm of Arrow lake before this district can be fully developed.

It is, however, as a distributing centre that Revelstoke is of most interest to producers east of the mountains. It is the point at which trade turns off the main line to reach the Sandon, Nelson and Rossland districts, and is also the first point at which United States competition in produce is met. The Columbia with its expansions, the Arrow lakes, forms a magnificient water way from the C. P. R. at Revelstoke to the Spokane and Northern at Northport. Along this water way produce is shipped to Lardeau for Trout lake, to Nakusp for Sandon to Robson, for Nelson, and to Trail for Rossland.

The waterway has been shortened at the north end by a short branch railway from Revelstoke down the Columbia to Arrowhead at the head of the Upper Arrow lake, and at the south end by rail from Robson to Trail, thereby avoiding some, at times, difficult river navigation. On the stretch of lake and river navigation from Arrowhead to Robson the C.P.R. run a magnificent passenger steamer, the Rossland, besides freight steamers. They also run railway barges from Arrowhead to Nakusp, so that although there is a break in the actual railway connection from Arrowhead to Nakusp, unbroken car loads are taken from say Edmonton right to Sandon. Beyond Sandon from the north end of Slocan lake they are taken by other railway barges to the south end of Slocan lake. There they take the railway again and can be run by rail eastward to Nelson, or westward to Robson and Trail, and shortly, as soon as the guage on the Hienzie road is widened, from Trail to Rossland. Besides this the Columbia & Western extension into the Kettle river country, now under construction, is reached at Brooklyn, at the south end of the lower Arrow lake, and about twenty miles nearer Revelstoke than Robson. So that without the Crow's Nest railway at all there is a complete system of practically all rail communication from Revelstoke throughout West Kootenay in the hands of the C. P. R. Practically all rail because the stretches of navigation on which railway barges are used do not freeze. To meet this C. P. R. system, the Spokane & Northern railway, now a part of the Great Northern system, extends from Northport on the Columbia direct to Nelson on Kootenay lake, and to Rossland west of the Columbia. Both railway companies are therefore in a position to do business throughout the West Kootenay country. The interest of Edmonton is of course in the trade from Revelstoke, and every improvement in transportation from that point is a benefit to us, if taken advantage of. Of course the same waterway which allows our produce to circulate freely through the Kootenay also allows that of the State of Washington to meet us at all points, —and it must be said, with a large measure of success. This is partly due to already established business connections, to the fact that we were later in the race, to the fact that we have much the longer haul, and it must be confessed somewhat to the fact that we have not taken hold of the opportunities offered in a confident and business like way. At the same time a very large business is done between Alberta and Kootenay by way of Revelstoke in beef, pork, oats, oatmeal, hay, butter, eggs, potatoes, etc.; and no doubt as the conditions of demand and supply became more firmly established and means of communication and rates are still further improved we will gain in the race. It will never do, however, for either producers or dealers to imagine that they have the Kootenay to themselves. They have a keen, alert, and favorably situated competitor already in possession, and must make their calculations accordingly. At the same time the trade is there. It is growing rapidly; sentiment is becoming more and more favorable to us all the time, and we should get the lion's share of the trade.

To aid Northwest trade in eggs, butter and other perishable products the Dominion department of agriculture established a cold storage warehouse at Revelstoke. This was under rental during the past summer, the conditions being such as to adequately protect the shipper. The actual or possible agricultural production in West Kootenay is practically nothing, as far as supplying even the local demand is concerned. As a scenic route the steamboat trip down the Arrow lakes and Columbia river to Robson is said to be unsurpassed. The steamer runs down one day and back the next. When the Crow's Nest road is in operation it will be possible to cross the mountains on the main line to Revelstoke, take steamer to Robson and return eastward by the Crow's Nest pass,—a trip which would occupy very little time and have many attractions.

The train pulls out from Revelstoke in the evening, crosses the Columbia and enters the Eagle pass through the Gold range. A dining car is attached and dinner served, but owing to the late lunch at Glacier is not largely patronized. Darkness set in about the time of leaving Revelstoke. On the train from Revelstoke as far as Sicamous junction was Mr. Pelly, who with a Mr. Wright, had gone from Edmonton to Dawson in the fall and winter of '97 by the Liard river route. Mr. Pelly had reached Dawson in June '98, but had not remained long, and came out by the White pass. The parties had split up in going up the Liard in the winter. They were in the position that if they took their supplies with them they would be too long getting there, and if they went on and left their supplies they might not be able to live after they got there. Pelly pushed on, and Wright, the Camsell boys, and Dan Carey and son stayed by the supplies. Mr. Pelly had seen A. E. Lee, M. Velgue, H. Woodward, Jas. Shand, Atkinson, DeWolf, W. J. Graham, and W. Shreeves, who had gone by the Liard route, and W. D. Matheson, M. Matheson, F. M. Robertson, F. Hardisty, Capt. Segers, S. A. McNeill and F. G. Taylor, who had gone by the Peel river route. He was at Houle Canon on the Pelly river, (named after a relative of Mr. Pelly) at the time Gibney, of Edmonton, and Balaam, of Sault Ste Marie, were drowned, and Kennedy of Vancouver died of the shock. McNeeley, of Sault Ste Marie, had fallen behind at Devil's portage and was no doubt the man whose body the Indians found in the spring. The drowning of Gibney an Balaam was the result of their own recklessness in running the canon, when they should have portaged around it. Mr. Pelly is interested in mining claims in the Okanagan valley and makes his home at Vernon.

MARKET SITE.

EDITOR BULLETIN.

DEAR SIR: On careful perusal of your article in last issue of your paper headed "The Market By-law." I am very much pleased to note that the necessity of a public market begins at last to become apparent.

While I am perfectly in accord with your views as to the said necessity of a market place, I am obliged on the other hand to ask space in your valuable pages to slightly correct and expand on a few of the sentences contained in the article mentioned, to prevent a false conception of certain matters to be dealt with. It seems to me expedient to give the voters on the by-law a second view on this question, and perhaps save them money and the humiliation of being led innocently into a scheme that might turn out an expensive failure

In order to have a correct idea of what kind of a market our beloved town is in need of, it must be said that we do not want tall expensive brick structures with cut stone fronts to house our farmers with their teams; but that we do want a respectable fair-sized piece of ground, where our farmers are able to turn around in. Mr. Editor, you say "the site selected is a very suitable one, the more so, because it adjoins the fire hall, already town property." Then you go on and tell us that the area is not as large as is desirable, but possibly sufficient for present needs. How will it be, should the site prove insufficient even for present needs, which to my opinion it would already be if it was twice the size?

But suppose it would be made to do for a few years, then perhaps naturally people would build all around the market, thereby raising the value of real estate around the site, say one hundred per cent.; then are the ratepayers again called upon in case they want the site enlarged to buy new properties and old shacks thereon that would not stand the moving, at double of the enormous figures as in the present case?

It is my main purpose in these lines to obviate any false conception with regard to the price of the site compared with Block X, at which comparison you hinted by saying that the price of the selected site is about on a par with the offer made by the town for Block X.

It must be remembered, that the value of the land on Block X exceeds considerably the value of lands of the proposed site, and it must be remembered that the area of Block X is six times as large as that of the selected site, and that Block X has the advantage of an eminently central and commanding position while the selected site has the prominence of a back street, which it shares with our town hall, it is true.

Since these circumstances are clear I shall endeavor to show my fellow citizens our offer made to the town some months ago according to their request to include in that offer the following items:

1st. Extension of McDougall St. valued at	$ 500
2nd. Right of way across R. L. 8 on flat to connect Cliff street,	1,000
3rd. Coal mining right on R. L. 8, valued at	2,000
4th. Fifty-six feet front on Jasper avenue, valued at	4,000
5th. Block X and street at south boundary of Block X.

The five important items have been lumped at $11,000, but our town authorities declined the offer, however, were willing to go $8,000.

A simple calculation will bring us to the price of Block X at that time offered the town which would have been $3,500.

Now, since Block X is about six times larger, and far superior in value, than the selected site, I wish any man in this town to point out to me on which side the bargain lies.

I wish to say further that it does not matter to me personally if the market should be established at the selected site, since I am bound to figure in the advantages thereof, by reason of my landed interests in its immediate vicinity, but I am nevertheless ready to point out some things that may affect my fellow ratepayers not so fortunately located.

Yours truly,
P. HEIMINCK.

STEWART RIVER STRIKES.

Scroggie Creek is the name of a new Yukon strike. The creek comes from the south into the Stewart about 20 miles above its junction with the Yukon. The creek was struck on Aug. 28th, and in September 55 claims were taken and 350 people were preparing to winter there. The discovery claim is about 20 miles above the mouth of the creek and yielded $1.00 to the pan. Strikes of coarse gold have also been made on Excelsior, Sanaza, Selwyn, Thistle, Tulare and Beaver Creeks, all small streams tributary to the Stewart. Two men took out 11 ounces in two weeks from Thistle creek. Several quartz claims bearing copper and gold have been located near Five Finger rapids, on the Lewes.

GLENGARRY.

Threshing for this season is about completed. The young men of this settlement have organized a debating and literary society. This is a commendable proceeding. On Friday night last a discussion took place on the following subject, viz: "Which wields the more influence wealth or education." This association meets on Friday evening of each week. On next night of debate the following question will be submitted: "Should woman have a vote?" The remains of R. B. McDonald, who died in Sandon, B. C., two weeks ago, were taken and interred in St. Albert Roman Catholic cemetery by his friends. Mr. D. McRae accompanied the remains from Sandon. To the bereaved family we extend our sincere simpathy.

ANGUS RIDGE.

John Biddle, Medicine Hat, gave his magic lantern entertainment in the Battle river school on Friday evening, Nov. 11th. All were well pleased. There was a good attendance.

Harvest still keeps the pupils at home. There are a few shocks to be seen in the fields yet. The threshing machines are all busy. We are informed that Rev. Dean will shortly be leaving this field. He is an earnest worker. Rev. Purdy's singing class will likely begin practice once every two weeks after the hurry is over. Will Wallace is fireman for Bob Angus.

FORT SASKATCHEWAN.

A meeting was held in W. G. Ross' store on Saturday evening to discuss the advisibility of forming a curling club. There was a good attendance and the prospects, of having a good club here, are bright. Attached hereto is a clipping from the Scotsman which is of some interest at present while the prohibition talk is going on. The idea is a good one and we hope the Edmonton and Fort Saskatchewan "Knights of the screw" will take it up forthwith. This is certainly the most sensible way of getting at the difficulty that we have seen yet. Because one man uses liquor in moderation and another makes an abuse of it the prohibitionists would like to see all punished alike, a most intemperate way of handling the question: "In order to minimise the consumption of alcoholic and the indiscriminate treating to drinks, which is a common a feature in the business and social life of America, Chicago has started what is known as a 'non-treating club.' It was founded principally for travelling men, and already the idea has 'caught on,' and its membership is counted in several other cities. For its badge it has the very excellent motto, 'When you want a drink take it, and don't imagine you offend anyone by not asking eight or ten to join you." Its pledge is to wear the inevitable button, and 'not to treat anyone who is a member." Dr. Aylen, Messrs. F. F. Tims, W. F. Langworthy, J. F. Forbes (returning officer) and A. J. Bremner returned yesterday from Lac la Biche.

D. Sinclair is building a good frame dwelling house. There will be a meeting of the Foresters on the 16th here. Nov. 'll, '98.

COUNCILLOR PICARD'S RESIGNATION.

Edmonton. 15th Nov., 1898.

EDITOR BULLETIN.

SIR: Some time ago you were good enough to give Mr. Humberstone and myself space in your paper for an explanation, to the people of Edmonton, regarding a motion made in the council for the purchase of Block X as a market site. I now beg to ask for further space so that I may be able to publicly explain my action in resigning my position as councillor.

At a regular meeting of the town council held on the 1st instant, a proposition was laid before the council, by Mr. Jellett, to sell to the town the following property as a market site:

Lots 2 and 3, Block 1, R. L. 10 and warehouse, value	$1,500
Lot 4, Block 1, R. L. 10, and two buildings value	450
Lot 33, Block 1, R. L. 10, and dwelling, value	1,300
Lots 35, 36 and 37, Block 2, R.L. 10,	1,200

making a total of $4,525 according to Mr. Jellett's own valuation, and for which he asked the sum of $4,500 This property I considered altogether too small, even for present requirements, and I accordingly made a motion, which was seconded by Mr. Humberstone, to file the communication, stating in the motion my grounds for so doing. An amendment to my motion was made to appoint Messrs. Ross, Jackson and Humberstone a committee to report to the council. It goes as a natural course of events that the amendment was declared carried and the motion lost,

A special meeting was held on the 7th instant, when all the councillors were present but Mr. Hourston, and a report was read from the committee recommending the purchase of the site; and here I might mention that one of the committee, Mr. Humberstone, although he had originally agreed with the rest of the committee, had afterwards, owing to other matters being brought to his notice, changed his opinion, and at the meeting expressed his dissent from the recommendation although he did not put in a minority report.

Without any discussion, as usual, a motion was made by Coun. McLeod, seconded by Coun. Ross, that the site be purchased. Mr. Humberstone promptly recorded an amendment, which I as promptly seconded, that the site be not purchased, stating as our grounds that Mr. Humberstone had an offer, which he placed on the table, which, in our opinion, was a far better site, being larger and cheaper and having no buildings to be removed. The mayor here raised a point of order, viz, that the meeting was called to consider the report of the committee on the Jellett offer, and that no other offer could therefore be considered. The question was put, and, as a further natural course of events, the motion was declared carried.

Now, Sir, it appeared to me that there were only two courses open to me in order to show my strong disapproval of the action of the other members of the council viz. either to resign, as I did, or merely to have called for the "yeas" and "nays" and asked that my protest should be recorded on the minutes. In taking the latter course the recommendation of the site in question would have gone before the public as the action of the whole council, and but few of the public might have heard of my protest as recorded in the minutes; whereas my resignation ensured that my opposition to the purchase would become a matter of public knowledge, and that the same was approved only by a majority of the council.

For the benefit of the ratepayers allow me here to state the offer that Mr. Humberstone placed before the council and to compare it with the Jellett offer:

Humberstone's offer: River lot 8, lots 30, 31, 32, 33, 34, 43, 44, 45, 46. Average size of each lot 50x150. Area including lane, 74,000 square feet. Price $3,500 or 4¾c per square foot.

Jellett's offer: River lot 10, block 1, lots 2, 3, 4, 35, 36, 37. Average size of each lot 33x100. Area including lane 23,280 square feet. Price, per by-law, $4,500, or 19½c per square foot.

Difference in favor of Humberstone offer, which the council refused to consider:

Area 50,720 square feet.

Price $1,000.

No unsuitable and therefore useless buildings to be removed.

Humberstone lots in one solid block; Jellett's in two small blocks not squarely facing each other.

There are two points that I wish to mention with regard to these offers:

1st. In Humberstone's offer there was a proviso regarding two lots, the ownership of which had not agreed to sell, there is, however, little doubt that they could have been secured without any additional cost, as these lots were valued at a fair market price and included in price asked for the block.

2nd. It will be noticed that lot 33 and dwelling, as contained in the original Jellett offer, is omitted in the above comparison, and the reason is obvious; the by-law to be submitted to the ratepayers leaves this lot out, either by error, or on account of some side issue that the public knows not of, the price, however, of the block remains at $4,500, making a clear gain of $1,300 to the seller.

Knowing sir, that you are the last person that would wish to mislead anyone, in any particular, I take the liberty of pointing out a slight misconception on your part if I read your meaning right. You say, in the editorial columns of your last issue, "As to the price it (referring to the Jellett offer) compares very favorably with the offer made in connection with Block X, and is about on a par with the offer made by the town for that property." Now figures do not lie when correct, and I do not think the following can be disputed:

Block X (including lot on Jasper avenue, but not taking into account the rights of way, &c., also covered by the price asked) has an area of 175,688 square foot. Jellett offer (excluding lot 32) has an area of 23,280 square feet. Price $4,500 or 19⅓ cents per square foot, the comparison is therefore very unfavorable and decidedly on Block X's side.

One of our councillors, to combat my argument that the property proposed to be purchased was too small, stated that if the site proved to be so the town could always expropriate to increase the size. Now, in my humble belief, this is a ruinous policy; by the purchase of a market site in the place proposed two corner lots are made and their value consequently rises and the town has to pay accordingly when the time comes to buy or expropriate. If we are going to purchase let us take "the bull by the horns" instead of taking "two bites at a cherry" and we will have a market site to be proud of and one that will do, not only for the present, but for all time.

In conclusion I desire to state, in order that the public will not think that I have changed my views with regard to Block X, that I still consider that block the proper and only site for our market; however, of the two other sites proposed I do not believe any sane man can differ with me when I say that the Humberstone offer is the best in every particular and that the Jellett offer has not one redeeming feature.

Thanking you very much for your space and time.

Yours truly,
J. H. PICARD
